East Crawford Parking Rule Is Being Enforced

The city police last night brought to the attention of a number of motorists, both local and out of town persons, that parking in East Crawford was being enforced.

At one time parking was allowed in that area but after some machines had slipped their brakes and dashed into the downtown district, the ordinance was revised, prohibiting any parking in that zone. Residents along the highway also protested, saying cars parked with their wheels against the curbstone caused water, on rainy days, to leak out of the gutter and flow into their cellars.

For a long time the law regarding parking was observed but recently motorists have begun to edge into that part of the street. For a time nothing was said regarding the practice but as it is growing steadily popular look steps to check it. All cars in that district last night were tagged and today there were a number of visitors at the city hall. No fines were imposed but the parking ordinance was explained.

A number of strangers were among those tagged. They said they left their machines there because others were in the zone and they presumed there was no ban.

Following a lingering illness Dr. R. T. Gribble, 64 years old, one of the oldest practitioners in Fayette county, died Monday afternoon at his home at Fairchance. His condition became more serious on Sunday.

Dr. Gribble was born in Redstone township on July 8, 1861, a son of Welsh T. and Lucy Gribble, and spent virtually all his life in Fayette county. He was graduated from New York University Medical College in 1885 and after practicing medicine in Redstone township for 18 months he located at Fairchance in 1886, continuing to reside there until death. On December 31, 1887, he was married to Lela Martin, who died nine years ago.

He was a former president of the Fayette County School Directors' Association, a member of Pine Knob Lodge, I. O. O. F. of Brownfield, Knights of Pythias, P. O. Fire Breaks Out Again Under State Road East of City

Although fire broke out again this morning along the state road through Poplar Grove where similar trouble has been experienced for the past two years, it was not necessary to close the highway to traffic.

For a time, however, motorists were sent over a detour through Snydertown, the smoke from the flames being so thick it could not be penetrated with safety by drivers of machines. The hole was plugged up, however, and the road re-opened. Trucks are hauling ashes today, widening the curve of the road in order that traffic may continue over it.

The plugging of the road was the quickest remedy possible this morning, but when sufficient two-inch water line, with which a stream may be directed on the flames, is secured, the clay will be removed and the fire extinguished.

Men are at work removing the coal under the section where the former road lay. When this is all taken out a fill will be made with clay and eventually the road, safe from further cave-ins, will be rebuilt along its former route.

Hickory Bottom Hears Good Story On Col. Barnhart

New Year was fittingly celebrated in the Hickory Bottom District, about thirty of the old-time neighbors and friends gathered at the Morland farm to live over the days long gone.

A good yarn was told on Colonel Barnhart. While teaching a class of children at the Summit Sunday School, according to the story, the name of Moses came up for discussion. "You know Moses commanded the sun to stand still," the colonel said. A little girl spoke up and said: "Why, Mr. Barnhart, it wasn't Moses." "Well," the colonel said, "it was some of them old fellows anyway."

When the table was set for dinner it fairly groaned with the good things.

Harvey M. Berkley Dies In Obscurity at Toledo; Ruined by Stock Plunging

TOLEDO, Ohio, Jan. 2.—Details of another stock market tragedy, the old familiar story of the "outsider" who tried to beat the game and failed, was brought to light in Toledo yesterday through the death last week of Harvey M. Berkley, 62, wanted in Johnston, Pa., for forgery and misappropriation of many thousands of dollars. Nearly five years ago Berkley moved to Toledo, changed his name to Meyers M. Harvey and opened an office. Berkley made no friends here and apparently had no relatives. His business was a complete mystery.

Just before Christmas he died. No will was found and the county auditor's office took steps toward finding heirs for the small estate. The investigation revealed that Meyers M. Berkley was really Harvey M. Berkley. The day after Christmas Berkley's wife, living in Cleveland, and Dr. Charles S. Walker, his brother-in-law, of Plymouth, Ohio, arrived here and completed the identification.

Fifteen years ago Harvey M. Berkley was a prosperous lawyer at Somerset, Pa. He was rapidly acquiring a fortune through his practice and numerous outside interests. He was then secretary and treasurer of the Somerset County Telephone Company. He was one of the substantial citizens of the county, financially and morally.

But shortly after the opening of the World War rumors were heard in the little town that Berkley was dabbling too heavily in the stock market. His standing was high, however, and the rumors gained little credence.

Congress Will Resume Tomorrow; Bonus—Tax Fight

Special to The Courier.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 2.—When Congress reassembles tomorrow it will face another period of idleness before it produces any legislation.

Nothing is to be attempted until next week and even then only minor matters will be given consideration. Leaders of the rank and file have interest centered on two measures—the tax and bonus bills.

The Ways and Means Committee bonus advocates will attempt to outmaneuver Administration forces and force the bonus to a vote ahead of the tax bill.

The overwhelming vote in favor of a bonus which the House is expected to cast is counted on by bonus advocates to have its effect on public sentiment which is less strong for the bonus than it was before Secretary Mellon said the country could not have a tax reduction and pay the bonus.

Congress returns under the strongest pressure from the country to reduce taxes. Much of this, members charge, is in the form of organized propaganda for Secretary Mellon's plan.

In the Senate leaders have seized upon the taxation issue as a powerful campaign weapon. Senator Robinson, Democratic leader, in conference with other Senate Democrats over the holiday recesses, has discussed plans to present a substitute for the Mellon tax bill.

MABEL NORMAND IS INVOLVED IN ANOTHER SCANDAL

Actress and Edna Purviance, Another Screen Girl, Grilled
in Shooting.

CHAUFFEUR TAKES BLAME

C. F. Dines, Denver Oil Operator,
Found in Apartment, Scantly Clad, With Bullet in Chest, After Visit by Girl's Aunt a Mystery.

By United Press.
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 2.—Mabel Normand and Edna Purviance, film stars, were questioned by Hollywood police today in connection with the shooting last night of C. F. Dines, wealthy oil operator.

R. C. Greer, Miss Normand's chauffeur, was charged with the shooting by police, who say he confessed. Dines was shot in the chest and it was said at the hospital that he would not prove alive.

Miss Normand and Miss Purviance went with the chauffeur to the police station following the shooting and after telling their versions were released on their own recognizance.

Like so many of Hollywood's shooting mysteries, the Dines affair was shrouded in uncertainty. It created tremendous excitement because of the remembered connection of Miss Normand with the last moments of William Desmond Taylor, murdered Los Angeles film director.

Pending formal arrest of some one the police did not give out complete details of the result of their grilling of the actresses and the chauffeur at the central police station. One version of the affair given out, however, and credited to Greer was that the chauffeur had driven Miss Normand to Dines' apartment at 5:20 P. M. Tuesday. There they found the former driver man was entertaining Edna Purviance, according to police. Some time later when police reached Dines' room they found him clad only in a bathrobe and socks lying on a couch like a ding from a wound in the chest.

The story credited to Greer is that shortly before starting out to drive Miss Normand to call on Dines he slipped a revolver into his pocket.

Miss Normand had planned to go to the railroad station to bid farewell to two friends who were leaving on the morning train. She stopped first at the hangar room where the Denver man had his room. The chauffeur waited outside in the car.

After Miss Normand had been inside for about an hour he became anxious. He went to Dines' apartment where the police say he claimed he saw Miss Normand was in no condition to remain any longer. The chauffeur told Miss Normand she had better return home with him and after a short argument he threatened to leave her employ if she did not come at once. "She put her arms on mine and we started for the door," Greer said.

At this point, according to the chauffeur, Dines is supposed to have interfered. There was mention of a bottle being used in an attempt to strike the chauffeur. Then Greer is said to have shot the oil man through the chest and to have left him lying while he reported to the police.

The part played by Miss Purviance was not made clear.

Miss Normand's version of the affair, according to police, differed from that given by Greer, with the exception of that part in which the chauffeur admitted the shooting.

Physicians attending Dines said today he would recover. He was shot through the chest.

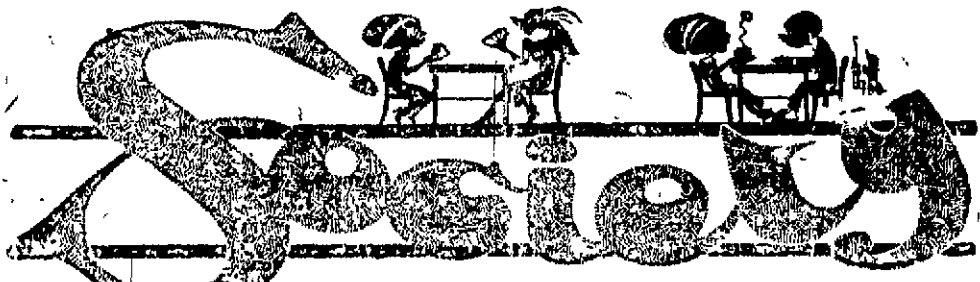

RADIO PRODUCES NEW GALAXY OF VOCAL ARTISTS

Has Connellsville any radio vocal stars? The question is prompted by reason of the assertion of Miss Eleanor Fischer, a music educational leader of the Northwest, that radio is developing an entirely new type of vocal artists, with voices surpassing in sweetness those of theatrical and concert stage stars.

Miss Fischer, as director of broadcasting station WJG, has for some time been experimenting with these "radio voices" and developing them. "There are thousands of 'radio voices' in this country alone which are of surpassing sweetness," Miss Fischer said "but because they have not the volume required to fill even small halls have not heretofore been heard outside of small circles of friends. The professional stage, the concert platform and operatic companies have all been forced to choose only the voices of the musical power, and in so doing they have been forced to sacrifice that quality of sweetness which was most appealing."

A Fayette county girl, Miss Helen Bell Rust of Dawson, is making a name for herself as a radio singer at Station WJG, New York.

Pele Stirring in Crater Of Kilauea; Natives Fear Another Eruption Imminent

ABOVE KILAUEA IN ACTION UPON THE LAST OCCASION OF HER ERUPTION. BELOW, A LAKE OF MOLTEN LAVA.

HILO.—This little town, nestled at the foot of the giant Kilauea, Hawaii's most famous volcano, is threatened again by the goddess of the mountain, whom the natives call Pele. Signs of activity in the crater have alarmed nearby residents. Streams of molten lava have burst through and overflowed into the main pit of the crater, covering an area of about forty acres. Fountains of lava are spouting from openings in the pit.

How to build up your Weight

To be under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become a plus.

That's why S. S. S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women, plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it for, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S. S. S. will build them.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

Wall Paper and Paint Given Away

On one certain day in January we will refund the price paid for every article purchased from us on that day. No strings, no advances in prices. No reservations made except on

Linseed Oil, White Lead and Turpentine

No matter how much you buy. You can buy enough paper to paper your entire house, or paint enough to paint it.

This is the plan that we have arranged with the Colonial National Bank. They take a January calendar and mark one date, Sundays excluded, with a cross as illustrated:

It may be the first day of the month that is marked, or it may be the last, or anywhere between, so it will pay to start early and scatter your purchases over the entire month.

This January calendar is placed in an envelope and sealed by the Cashier, and kept by the Colonial National Bank. On the first day of February this envelope will be opened by an officer of the bank in the presence of responsible witnesses and the date marked will be announced in this paper.

No one but the bank officer will know the date. This means to everyone who bought goods from us on that date, and paid for them in cash, we will refund every dollar at purchase price. It makes no difference how many people, where they are from or how much your purchases, it all goes.

ARE YOU LUCKY?

RULES—You must keep your purchase slips and present same to us on or before February 10th, 1924, in order to get your money. (Purchase slips must be presented.)

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards' produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid liver.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth" or bad breath—a result of calomel—headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep regular. Try them. 15c and 50c.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, JAN. 2, 1924.

INSURING PROSPERITY IN 1924.

From the numerous forecasts by students of economic and business conditions, the general conclusion can safely be drawn that, as expressed by Secretary of Commerce Hoover, "The economic outlook for the United States for 1924 is bright."

This prediction is based upon the features which characterized the commercial and industrial history of the past year. These included, Secretary Hoover observes, "the highest total productivity and movement of commodities since the war, with full employment, high real wages, greatly increased savings, large additions to home building and the largest increase in railway equipment since the war. The whole has been accompanied by a remarkable absence of speculation, consequent over-accumulation of consumable goods or dangerous expansion of credit. As we are not in a boom we can expect freedom from a slump."

"Taking the country as a whole, we never in history have enjoyed a higher standard of living and comfort, nor so great a degree of commercial and industrial efficiency as today."

By keeping our feet on the ground, working diligently, spending judiciously and saving wisely, we can make 1924 all that is required to maintain stability in business and industry and insure gainful employment for the largest number of persons.

If we live sanely and remember that we have duties and obligations to each other rather than privileges we alone can safely enjoy our happiness ought to be more nearly complete during 1924 than in any preceding year in our lives. Our prosperity will follow as a matter of course.

OVERHEATING HONEY.

The season of the year is here when many people endanger their health through overheating their houses.
They neglect taking the precautions necessary to keep inside air pure and wholesome because it involves too much effort and some inconvenience to prevent conditions that are a menace to good health.

A writer in Hygiene says that most authorities agree that the factors that distinguish good from bad air are proper temperature, proper humidity and adequate movement. The maximum temperature of rooms for health is about 72 F. Most Americans like the temperature much higher and complains of feeling chilly when it is at this level.

This feeling of chilliness, particularly in rooms or homes heated by natural gas, results from the air being too dry. Air in that condition means that excessive evaporation of moisture takes place from the skin, mouth and nose, and this evaporation takes heat away from the body. The warm combination between temperature and humidity are cold damp air, warm moist air, and excessively dry air artificially warmed. The comfort zone lies between 65 and 70 F. with a humidity between 30 and 65 per cent. The average indoor room in winter has a humidity between 15 and 33 per cent and to offset the great loss of body heat which this causes the temperature is kept far too high.

It is the experience of physicians that the death rate in cases of respiratory diseases is very appreciably affected by small changes in the humidity of living rooms. Persons predisposed to colds and the diseases resulting therefrom can safeguard their health during the winter months in no better way than by taking care to provide proper ventilation and preventing overheating of their living and sleeping rooms.

"Name Your Poison"

Philadelphia Ledger.

"Name Your Poison" used to be the fanciest form of invitation to take a drink in the pre-prohibition days.

Today the expression has a sinister meaning of its own, the interpretation of which is found in the appalling record of deaths from drinking the home-made and other varieties of hooch purveyed by bootleggers and saloonkeepers. The stuff has become so evil a reputation that the worder grows so many can be found who are willing to risk drinking it.

Perhaps when the recklessness are all killed off the enforcement of the amendment will be less difficult.

Short Talks On Advertising

In no other country in the world is the standard of living so high as in these United States of America. In no other country is advertising done so thoroughly, universally and effectively.

Let us see how directly these phenomena are related. Knowledge of new comforts, conveniences and luxuries is disseminated by advertising. Knowledge begets desire and desire leads to effort.

We work a little harder, think a little harder, save a little harder, so that we may have a telephone and porcelain tub in the house, a piano, an automobile, another set of books, more stylish clothing, more artistic furnishings and a bird-bath on the lawn.

As we do better work under the spur of the desire for a broader life, the quality and quantity of our service to others increases and greater remuneration is forthcoming.
The American farmer will receive for his produce in 1923 $1,250,000,000.

more than in 1922. Less intelligent or less strenuous work would not have achieved this result. A recent newspaper pleader showed Pierre Laforgue, a partner of Laforgue, who is working the ground owned by his direct ancestors for 115 years. And there is wondering wooden shanties! You know there is no open plumbing in his home and that Madame Laforgue has no washing machine or kitchen cabinet.
It is doubtful if they know of the existence of these or hundreds of other every day necessities of American life which advertising has made known and made readily accessible.

So, aside from the economic fact that advertising, by increasing the volume of production, reduces its cost, it exerts an education and influencing power which makes life more interesting. It is a direct, positive continuous producer of greater knowledge and appreciation of art, music, books and all of the things which distinguish the highest and best civilization.

One of the best and most entertaining methods for getting children to breathe deeply is to have them stand before an open window and try to outdo one another in blowing out a hanging ribbon. Parental supervision will prevent the idea from overdoing the exercise.

The Kneeling Wife and Mother
In the woman who sacrifices her health and consequent happiness to her ambition. We all know such women—women who think their homes shall be kept immaculately neat and attractive and their children well dressed and they overdo and soon bring on some feminine ailment which is evidenced by nervousness, irritability, headaches, backache and other aches and pains attending such ills. Every woman should remember that the most successful remedy for such conditions is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound which for fifty years has been restoring women to health, strength and happiness.—Advertisement.

CANDY A FEW WAYS

Every body likes the old-fashioned candies which mother used to make, such as:

Butterscotch.—Take one cupful of white sugar, one quarter of a cupful of molasses, one tablespoonful of vinegar, two tablespoonfuls of boiling water and one-half cupful of butter. Boil the ingredients together until, when tried in cold water, the mixture will be brittle. Turn into a well-buttered pan when slightly cool and mark with a sharp knife into squares. Flavor with a few drops of vanilla before pouring out, if desired.

Chocolate Caramels.—Put two and one-half tablespoonfuls of butter into a kettle and, when melted, add two cupfuls of molasses, one cupful of brown sugar, one cupful of milk and three squares of chocolate. Boil all together until, when tried in cold water, a firm ball may be made, then add a teaspoonful of vanilla. Turn into a well-buttered pan to cool. Mark off into squares before it is too firm.

Sultana Caramels.—Put one-quarter of a cupful of butter into a saucepan; when well melted add two cupfuls of sugar, one-half cupful of milk and one-quarter cupful of molasses. Bring to the boiling point and boil seven minutes. Add two squares of chocolate and stir until the chocolate is melted, then boil seven minutes longer. Remove from the fire, beat until creamy, add one-half cupful of hickory nut meats or walnuts, cut into pieces, and two tablespoonfuls of sultana raisins. Cool slightly and mark off into squares.

Peppermints.—Take one and one-half cupfuls of sugar, one-half cupful of boiling water and stir until the sugar is dissolved, then boil ten minutes; remove from the fire, add six drops of peppermint and beat until creamy. Drop from the tip of a spoon on buttered paper.

Pralines.—Boil together one and one-half cupfuls of powdered sugar, one cupful of maple syrup, one-half cupful of cream until a soft ball may be formed. Remove from the fire and beat until creamy; add two cupfuls of hickory nuts or pecan meats. Drop into small piles on buttered paper or mold in small cone shape.

HARD TO TELL

"Does the goldfish know you?"

"I cannot tell," responded Guthbert. "It makes no sound, and its tail wagging seems to be for purposes of propulsion only."

INHERITED FEAR

Miss Althaus—Do you know of the Ancient Mariner—that fellow who blew my distinguished ancestor?

Mr. Penguin—To be sure—heard of him all my life.

Miss Althaus—Well, don't you know I never go near a ship for fear that old phony may still be alive!

The Paramount

"CONQUERING THE WOMAN" the leading attraction today at the Paramount is a big Vidor picture with Florence Vidor appearing in one of the best roles of her career. Judith is a girl of 20, who has been in love with a man for two years in Europe. A total disappointment to her father, she is sent to a boarding school and the love-making of a count had turned her pretty head. Hoping it can't permanently turn and in the end she is sent to a boarding school. Judith is a girl of 20, who has been in love with a man for two years in Europe. The Soisson

"THREE WISE FOOLS," starring William H. Crane, Alice Francis and Claude Gillingwater, is the feature picture today at the Soisson. The story concerns three men who had been in love with, and rejected by, the same woman in their youth. On her death she leaves her daughter in their charge and she is soon the center of their lives. When her father, falsely imprisoned on a forged charge, escapes in a jail-break staged by other convicts, she drags the three men into some dramatic and suspenseful action which gives the picture its human moments. The jail-break, in the aid of an armored motor car, is spectacular in the extreme. The cast has been selected with the greatest ability. Eleanor Boardman requests the success she won in "Souls for Sale." William H. Crane and Alice Francis are always real and appealing as his cronies. Others in the notable cast are John Salsapelle, William Haines, Fred Emmett, Martha Minton, Fred J. Butler, Charles H. Brown, Craig Eddle, Jr., Creighton Hale and Raymond Hatton.

The Orpheum

"TO THE LADIES" showing today at the Orpheum, is a Paramount picture featuring an all star cast. Tager are four famous screen players featured in the cast of "To the Ladies," each of whom adds to the enjoyableness of the production. They are Edward Horton, Theodore Roberts, Helen Jerome Eddy and Louise Dresser. All who saw Mr. Horton in "Dagobert of Red Gap," in which he immediately won public approval, will realize that they have a treat in store for them when they see "To the Ladies." In this comedy, Mr. Horton has a delightful role which affords him abundant opportunities for effective comedy work and in which he is not found wanting. To pay a tribute to the artistic work of Theodore Roberts, in equivalent to carrying coals to Newcastle. Mr. Roberts has been seen and admired in scores of notable Paramount pictures, including his great success in "The Old Homestead," "Grumpy," and others, but he is at his best in "To the Ladies" in which the "grand old man of the movies" has the role of an insurance manufacturer who has troubles of his own and knows how to meter them. Helen Jerome Eddy is a well known screen player and for more than eight years she has been a screen favorite. She was seen in "Polyanna," "The City Sparrow," and many others.

VIOLA GWYN

By GEORGE BARR
McCUTCHEON

"In as I tell you," he called out slightly. "There is a pack of ruffians."

"Pack your gun!" she cried, with a shrill laugh. "I tell you I am alone." As he came quickly toward her she struck back, seized by a strange, inexplicable panic. For a few seconds he stood looking down at her, breathing sharply. She heard something drop at his feet, and then both his hands gripped her shoulders, drawing her roughly up to him.

"Oh—! What are you doing?" she gasped as his arm went around her. That arm of steel drew her so close and held her so tightly to his breast that she could feel the tremendous thumping of his heart. She felt herself trembling—trembling all over; the light in the window up beyond seemed to draw nearer, swelling to vast proportions as it bore down upon her. She closed her eyes. What was happening to her, what was causing this strange languor, this queer sensation as of falling?

As abruptly as he had clasped her to him, he released her, springing back with a muttered exclamation. "What is the matter, Kenny?" she murmured, heavily.

He did not answer. He leaned heavily against the fence, his head on his arm. She did not move for many seconds. Then he heard her gasp—a gasp of actual terror.

"Who are you?" she whispered tensely. "You are not my brother. You are not the real Kenneth Gwynne! Who are you?" She waited for the answer, but did not come. Then as she drew further away from him: "You are an impostor. You have deceived me. You have come here representing yourself to be my brother—and you are not—you are not! I know it—oh, I know it now. You are—"

This aroused him. "What is that you are saying?" he cried, lighting to pull his disordered hair together. "Not your brother? Impostor? What are you saying, Vol?"

"I want the truth," she cried. "Are you what you claim to be?"

"Of course I am," he answered, smiling. "I am Kenneth Gwynne, your brother. Have you lost your senses?"

"Then why—" she began hesitantly. "Why did you— Oh, Kenny, I don't know what I am saying," she murmured, drowsily. "I—I don't know what I am saying." "Something— Oh, I don't know what made me feel—I mean what made me say that to you. You are Kenneth Gwynne. You are my brother. You are not—"

"There, there!" he interrupted his voice shaking a little. "You are frightened. I came to hear to shoot."

— Yes, that is it. And I was so happy, so relieved that I— almost as you alive—my little sister, and what a horrible thing it would have been if I had— I— and then I— I— I—

He stopped and, collecting his thoughts, repeated not one but a half of the long story of his life. He took her by the arm and led her into his house.

"I was after I— after I— after I—"

he continued. "There are my pistols— all primed and ready for business."

She stretched out her hand and touched one of the weapons. "Ready for what business?" she inquired. "What did you mean by a pack of ruffians?"

"I was mortally afraid they had stolen a march on us, and you were already in their hands. You see, Isaac Stain was to have kept me informed and we were to have laid a trap for them. Oh, Lord!" he exclaimed in sudden consternation. "I am letting the cat out of the bag."

"Will you please tell me what you are talking about, Kenneth Gwynne?" she said impatiently.

He came to a quick decision. "Yes, I will tell you everything. There is a plot afoot, Viola, to abduct you. Stain got wind of it. He came to me with the story. I don't suppose you will believe me, and you will probably despise me for what I am about to say, but the man you love and expect to marry is behind the scheme. I mean Barry Lapelle. He—"

"When did you hear of this?" she interrupted quickly. "After the Revere came in?"

"More than a week ago. He came home on the Revere today. His plan is to—"

"I know. I saw him. We quarreled. It is all over between us, Kenny."

"It is all over between you?" he cried, and he could not disguise the joy in his voice. "You have ended it?"

"Yes, it is all over," she said stiffly. "I am not going to marry him. I was coming over to tell you. But— go on. What is this one-and-half story about abducting me?"

At the conclusion of his short, unembellished recital, he said: "There is nothing for you to be worried about. They cannot carry out the plot. We are all forewarned now. I should have told you all this before, but I was afraid you would think I was trying to blacken Lapelle. I wanted to catch him red-handed, as the saying is. Isaac Stain is coming to sleep here tomorrow. We will be ready for them—so don't you worry."

"There was a puzzled frown in her eyes. 'I don't see why he should have planned this a week ago, Kenny. I told him I would marry him. There must be something back of all this.'"

"Do you know anything about a friend of his who is going to be married to-night? He spoke to me about it the other day, and asked if I could legally deprive a daughter of a share in her deceased father's estate."

"Why—that's me, Kenny," she cried excitedly. "I told him that mother would disinherit me entirely if I married him without her consent."

A light broke over him. "By Jingo!" he cried. "I am beginning to see. Why, it's as plain as day to me now. The heavily veiled plot!"

"What do you mean?"

"Could your mother very well carry out her threat if he made off with you by force and compelled you to marry him, whether or not?"

She stiffened. "I would never— never consent, Kenny. I would die first."

"I suppose you imagine there could be no worse fate than that?" he said, pity in his eyes.

She looked puzzled for a moment and then grasped his meaning. Her face blanched.

"I said I would die first," she repeated in a low, steady voice.

"Well," he cried, smiling up brightly from his chair. "I guess we'd better hurry if we want to catch you mother before she goes to bed. And that reminds me, Viola—I would like to speak with her alone. You see, he went on lamely, 'You see, we're old friends and I don't know how she will receive me.'"

She nodded her head without speaking and together they left the house.

CHAPTER XIV

Rachel Delivers a Message.
Rachel was standing on her porch as they came up the walk.

"Kenneth wants to talk to you about something very important," said Viola anxiously, as they drew near.

The woman on the porch did not speak until they passed the bottom of the steps.

"Have you been over to his house, Viola?" she asked levelly.

"Yes, mother."

After a moment's hesitation: "Come in, Kenneth." She stood aside to let Viola pass. Kenneth, who had hastily donned his coat, followed the two women into the house. There was a light in the parlor. "Will you sit down, or do you prefer to remain standing in my house, Kenneth Gwynne?"

He looked still, indicating a chair with a gesture. "Will you be seated first, in order?"

His emphatic blankly drew a faint, ironic smile in her face. "Thank you," she said calmly, and seated herself on the little leather sofa.

Viola left the room, closing the door behind her. Neither of them had heard her footsteps on the floor above.

"Well, what have you been telling her?" asked Rachel, leaning forward, her eyes narrowing.

He drew a chair up close to the sofa and said: "Nothing that she should not know," he answered. "I will first tell you what happened in the white room and then—the rest of it. There is still about. I have been wrong, I realize, in not warning you and Viola."

She drew up in her seat to the end; not once did she interrupt him, but as he proceeded to unfold the tangled web of his plot as presented to him by Isaac Stain, her brow darkened and her fingers began to work nervously, restlessly in her lap.

"Why did Isaac Stain go to you instead of coming to me?" was her first question.

A Striking Value—at $295

Considering the improved appearance of the new Ford Touring Car, one would naturally expect a proportionate advance in price.

Larger scale production, however, has made it possible to incorporate in this new type touring car a number of decided improvements without increasing its cost to the purchaser.

A comparison extending over a long period of years will reveal the fact that the present price is actually the lowest at which the five-passenger open car has ever been sold.

The Ford Touring Car stands today, as it always has, a most remarkable value in the motor car field.

Keep Purebred Birds—Flocks of mongrels usually lay eggs that lack evenly in uniformity of size and color. Keep purebred birds if you expect the best prices for your product.

Get Ready for the Ice Harvest—It's time to perform such odd jobs as getting the loading platform ready, repairing the ice house, and drying your hay and mudst. It is also important to have all the tools ready when the time comes. It is just as necessary to cut ice at the right time as it is to cut hay when it is fit.

Get Out the Tank Heater—Practical dairy men find that where water cannot be prevented from freezing, the tank heater pays. When the chill is removed from the water, the body heat and energy, which otherwise would be used to warm the water drunk from the ice-coated tank, will go towards milk production. Heat obtained from the burning of coal or wood is a whole lot cheaper form of heat than the energy obtained from the cow from high priced feed which must be given her.

Locals Showing Better Form
Right Along: Passing game is improving.

WEAK ON FOUL SHOOTING

Basketball fans were very much pleased with the form and speed the C. H. S. five showed last evening in the High School gymnasium when it defeated the Elk Lick aggregation of Somerset county by a score of 40 to 27.

If the visitors had been successful in making all the long shots they attempted they might have won, but owing to the fact that the locals were too speedily lik Lick roll to defeat. It looked at the beginning of the battle as though the locals were in for a thrashing.

In the first half of the game things were pretty tight, the score being a 4-4 tie. The C. H. S. then rallied and showed the visitors some speed. On the other hand the locals had nothing soft as Elk Lick was a good aggregation. In the second half the visitors could not do any floor passing at all, trying mostly shooting long baskets.

The lineup:
C. H. S.—O'Donnell 5, Young 4, LaRue 3, Walsh 3, Eagle 2, Trump, Fisher, Wilhelm.
Elk Lick—St. O'Donnell 8, Young 4, LaRue 3, Walsh 3, Eagle 2, Trump, Fisher, Wilhelm.

Paramount Five Drops Game to Dickerson Run

After playing two extra periods because of a deadlocked score the Paramount Five of this city and the Dickerson Run Y. M. C. A. basketball team went into a third overtime frame, the locals losing by one point, 15-14. The game was played on the Dickerson Run Y. M. C. A. floor.

The Paramounts, formerly the South Side Eagles, played a good game against their larger opponents.

The lineup:
Paramount—St. Y. M. C. A.—St. Keeler 1, out of 4, George 1 out of 2, Walsh 3 out of 7, Young 2 out of 5, W. Leichter 5 out of 8, D. Leichter 1 out of 3, Wagner 3 out of 4, Thaxie 4 out of 12.
Referee—Wall.

Fully Mink, heavyweight pugilist, died yesterday at Minneapolis of Bright's disease. He was 29 years old.

Dropped in the second and fifth rounds for the count of nine, Lew Tendler yesterday lost the decision in a 10 round bout in Philadelphia to Ned Goldman of that city. Tendler showed signs of grogginess.

District Attorney Miller Closes Up Work of His Term

District Attorney William A. Miller and his staff made their last appearance officially in court Tuesday when practically all the cases left over or pending were disposed of. There are a few to come before the court next Tuesday morning but the new administration will be in office at that time.

George L. McAllister of 406 Denville street, Pittsburg, who entered a plea of guilty to charges of involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of Roy John Kewler, on the National Pike, just west of Brownsville, on September 20, last, was paroled for a period of two years, and will report every six weeks during that time to Parole Officer Charles W. Baer.

The minister was returning from a conference in Wheeling and stopped his automobile along the road near the cemetery to get a sandwich at a stand across the street. McAllister claims that the minister stopped in front of his car and that he did not see him until it was too late to avoid the accident.

William H. McElroy of Uniontown was sentenced to pay his wife $20 per week for the support of herself and child on a charge of non-support and give bond in the sum of $400.

Petitions were presented in court yesterday for a division of Redstone township Nov. 1 and 3 and ordered filed.

Application was made for the levying of an additional road tax in Henry Clay township and January 15 was set as the date for a hearing. James A. G. Murray was appointed road supervisor for Brownsville township to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Fred Lang.

Sande Won Initial Race on Arizona Fair Track

Earl Sande, who rode Zev to victory against Papyrus, the pride of England, first appeared at a race track eight years ago when at Arizona's state fair he asked for a chance to ride. Finally they gave it to him, and mounted the slim, track-faced boy on a horse with a reputation of pulling up at the end of a race with its rider missing. "Sande" let loose pandemonium in the stands by thundering across the white line several lengths ahead of them all.

The next international polo matches between the United States and England are to be played at Meadowbrook in September, 1924.

Pat Moran has signed a contract to continue as manager of the Cincinnati National league ball club. Moran's contract for 1924 is a duplicate of the 1923 agreement.
